

Florida Voter Registration Trends in 2021

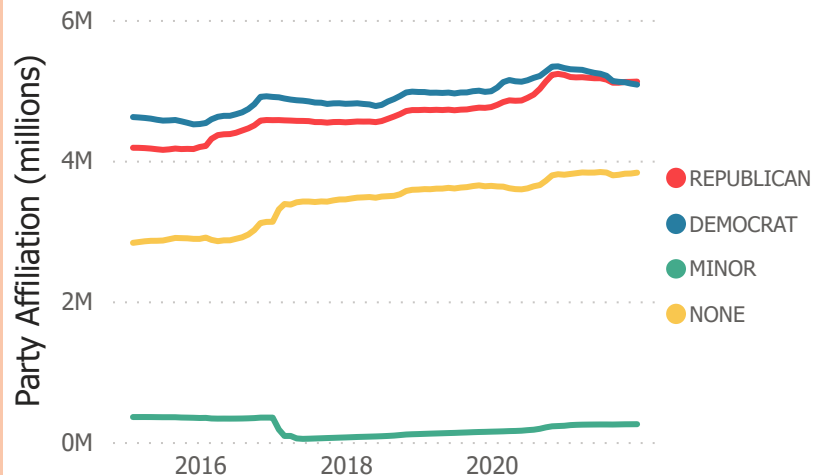

Registered Voters in Florida in 2021:

14,287,711

2020: 14,565,738 (loss of 278,027)

FL Registered Voters 2015- 2021

What happened in 2021?

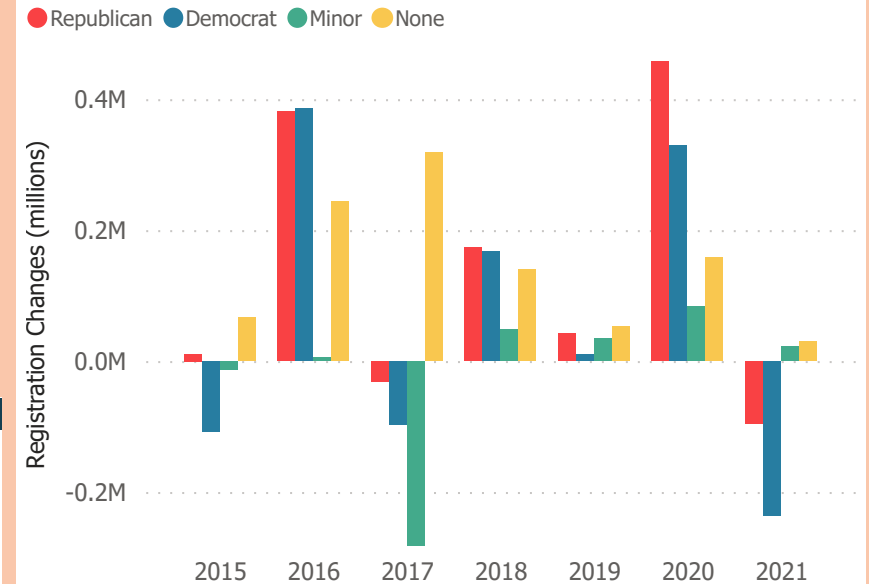

At the end of October 2021, the number of registered Republicans in Florida was higher than the number of registered Democrats for the first time in state history.

When looking at voter registration numbers throughout the year, this shift seems to be caused by an overall decrease in voter registrations.

2021 Month-by-Month Registration Changes by Party

MONTH	Republican	Democrat	Minor	None
January 2021	-30219	-16858	9557	11038
February 2021	-5105	-4088	3875	10055
March 2021	2329	-4543	2430	11178
April 2021	-7585	-22601	1168	-2566
May 2021	-6851	-20272	887	821
June 2021	202	-12482	630	7885
July 2021	-19791	-29345	-51	-7538
August 2021	-43956	-74451	-750	-39724
September 2021	-385	-11237	1648	7990
October 2021	10979	-6038	1852	15629
November 2021	1719	-19031	528	2249
December 2021	3723	-14311	823	12556
Total	-94940	-235257	22597	29573

Party Registration Yearly Changes 2015-2021

Why is this significant?

2021 saw the greatest loss in overall voter registrations in the last seven years at 278,027 voters. 2017 was the last year with an overall loss, but with the large gain in No Party Affiliation voters that year, the overall deficit was only 91,996.

2021 was also the largest loss in a single year for both Republicans and Democrats over this period.